Why Giving is More Important than Receiving

“The best way to find yourself is to lose yourself in the service of others.”
~ Mahatma Gandhi.

1. Giving helps others.

If you're blessed with the means to live a reasonably comfortable way of life (meaning, if you're able to read this), you have the ability to give.

2. Giving inspires giving.

People who have been on the receiving end of kindness to pay it forward and give to others even when they have hardly anything to give.

3. Giving teaches responsibility.

When you give, you may have to make sacrifices.

4. Giving cultivates self-worth.

Seeing the smiles, gratitude and expressions of hope on the faces of those you are kind to makes the act of giving worthwhile.

5. Giving does make a difference.

No matter how much or how little you can give, you have the power to touch the life of another person and you can affect them in ways you may never completely be aware of.

Whatever you decide to give, know that a pure spirit and a generous heart can be your own path to real happiness.

REREC donates textbooks in Turkana

REREC staff donating textbooks at Milima Tatu Girls Secondary School

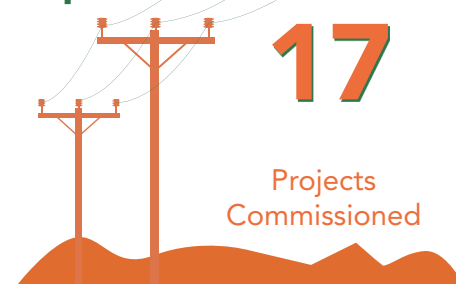

Turkana has the highest proportion of people with no education at all and citizens living there are seven times less likely to have secondary education than the average Kenyan.

Pastoralism and fishing are the major economic activities and sources of livelihoods for the local community. Goats, camels, donkeys and zebu cattle are the most common livestock kept in most homesteads in the region. The Turkana are pastoralists, whose lives are shaped by the extreme climate in which they live.

In June 2022, officers from REREC visited Milima Tatu Girls Secondary School to donate text books as part of the Corporation's efforts to give back to the community. The school that has a population 350 students is working hard to create new norms in the community by facilitating education for girls in the county despite the challenges faced by the learners in the arid area. The school which is located in Turkana North Constituency was established in 2016 and will this year have 75 students taking the national examinations.

Speaking on behalf of the Principal after receiving the books, the Deputy Principal Mrs Sharon Murumba expressed her joy and appreciation towards REREC for the donation and called upon the corporation to keep supporting the school as such Initiates inspire and motivate the students to work harder and improve their performance.
